

Types of Conflict

1. Raj has been training for the city marathon for months. However, he gets nervous as the day approaches and starts doubting if he can complete the race. This is an example of which type of conflict?

- Character vs. society
- Character vs. self
- Character vs. nature
- Character vs. character

2. Which type of conflict involves a character's internal struggle?

- Character vs. nature
- Character vs. society
- Character vs. self
- Character vs. character

3. How can conflict help us understand a story better?

- It provides comic relief.
- It helps us understand the lesson or message of the story.
- It adds unnecessary complexity to the story.
- It allows us to predict the story's ending.

4. Mei and her friends were on a hiking trip when they lost their way and had to survive in the wilderness until help arrived. Which type of conflict is presented here?

- Character vs. self
- Character vs. technology
- Character vs. nature
- Character vs. character

5. Where in the plot do we typically first learn about the conflict?

- Inciting incident
- Resolution
- Climax
- Falling action

6. How does conflict influence a character's development in a story?

- It does not affect a character's growth at all.
- It allows the character to grow and evolve.
- It usually makes the character weaker.
- It leads the character to become an antagonist.

7. How does conflict contribute to the structure of a plot?

- It starts during the falling action and keeps the tension high.
- It starts during the inciting incident and pushes characters to grow.
- It first happens during the climax and makes the moment more exciting.
- It is solved during the rising action and teaches the reader a lesson.

8. What does the conflict in a story often reveal?

- The story's theme, or message to the reader
- The personality traits of supporting characters
- The story's geographical location
- The author's favorite character

9. Yara is on a quest to rescue her brother from a dangerous group of pirates. She is determined and relentless. Which type of conflict is described here?

- Character vs. technology
- Character vs. character
- Character vs. nature
- Character vs. society

10. The citizens of the small town, led by Tatiana, banded together to protest against the unfair laws imposed by the government. The situation primarily illustrates which type of conflict?

- Character vs. self
- Character vs. character
- Character vs. society
- Character vs. technology